

When we decided to build a home for the first time, we wanted a builder who would work with us to customize a home that reflects who we are and fits our lifestyle. We also wanted a builder who could make the process manageable to keep the overwhelm to a minimum.

That's why we chose K&L Homes. Chad and his team gave us the tools to keep track of everything using an app, talk to him, the job foreman, and the subcontractors whenever we had questions or concerns, and stay in touch with his team of vendors who helped with everything from colors and design to finding solutions for unique installations.

We never had to hunt people down or struggle to get answers, the thing we heard so many other people experienced with other builders.

After we moved into our home we received the same attention we received through the building process. K&L is standing behind their work for an entire year.

Bottom line ...we love our K&L home. If something happened where we needed to build again, we wouldn't hesitate to call K&L.
